

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Seth "Soul Man" Ferranti is currently incarcerated in the feds doing a 304 month sentence for running a continual criminal enterprise. He has been in prison since 1993 and during his 15 years of doing time he has published two books, Street Legends and the Don Diva Bestseller Prison Stories.

He has also written articles for Don Diva, Feds, Street Elements, King, Slam and a bunch of other magazines. Plus his work has appeared on www.hoopshype.com, www.urbanbooksource.com and on www.gorillaconvict.com. He has been writing about this gangsta stuff, prison basketball and street lit authors from the jump. Check out all his work at www.gorillaconvict.com. And check out his blog on the same site which posts a new story every month.

STRAIGHT OUT OF FEDERAL PRISON...

"Guero," a young suburban white kid, is thrust into the feds on a marijuana rap. Facing a lengthy sentence in the corrupt and violent netherworld of prison, Guero sets out to make his reputation and get his respect.

While growing into his manhood amidst the ever-present chaos and twisted realities of the penitentiary, Guero falls in with a Latino drug smuggling gang and struggles with his evolving identity as a convict and "vato loco."

Prison Stories is a real-life look into the life of prisoners confined in the Bureau of Prisons. Short story vignettes interwoven throughout the pages offer readers a vicarious, personal experience of everything prison is...the power-tripping of guards, gangs, prisoners getting turned out, killings, and more.

"An episode of OZ couldn't capture prison drama the way Seth "Soul Man" Ferranti does in Prison Stories."

Don Diva Magazine

"Prison Stories is raw, honest, and gripping. A dope read. Gritty and Real."

King Magazine

A SLICE OF PRISON LIFE SERVED REAL, RAW, & COLD.

Gorilla Convict Publications
PO Box 492
St. Louis, MO 63376
www.gorillaconvict.com

